THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

Many years ago the editor of this newspaper became convinced that the water supply of Nevada City needed chlorinating. The files of the Nugget will show both news articles and editorials advocating the use of chlorine to make safe water consumed for drinking and bathing purposes.

Physicians are of one mind on the subject. This summer's epidemic of fevers among children swimming and wading in the municipal pool confirms the warnings of our physicians.

Time was when the big ditches that supply water for domestic purposes to Grass Valley and Nevada City residents ran through an uninhabited country, the water supply was relatively safe without chlorination. But as the mountains have become peopled with summer and winter sportsmen, with fishermen, hunters, skiers and winter sports enthusiasts, the pristine conditions that once obtained have been radically changed.

We are gratified that the city council is now taking steps to chlorinate the water supply. We are aware of course that it will cost the tax payers money to make water safe, but no taxes are collected from citizens in cemeteries. As matters have stood for a long time the residents of Nevada City and Grass Valley were fine targets for an epidemic that could have placed a number of us upon the non taxable rolls.

We think adults and oldsters are perhaps not so much subject to the unpleasant epidemic that spread widely upon our children this summer. A certain immunity is gained with the years, which children do not share. Even if there have been no fatal cases of illness due to polluted water, we are convinced that all illnesses experienced by children have a retrograde effect on their health and growth for years to come.

We are also pleased to note that sewage of Nevada City is no longer to run raw into Deer Crerk. That there was an element of compulsion, in fact the fiat of the State Health Department, incluencing our city fathers, need not make us blush. It was an old Spanish custom for the municipalities in the Sierra foothills to run their sewage into the sparkling Sierra streams. This custom is now going into the discard.

We have been a bit touchy on this subject, just speaking personally. When given a mess of trout, we have asked the donors just where they were caught. We have noted that the fattest trout are caught just below the sewage outlets. We had rather our trout grew stout and aldermanic on the bugs that fly in the high Sierras.

As Mrs. Charles Scott Haley remarked in her recent letter to the Nugget: "Surely a community which seeks to establish itself as a desirable esidential and resort area cannot afford to offer its inhabitants polluted water. Some day an epidemic of serious consequences might result."

Both a pure water supply and a safe disposal of sewage are essential to good public health. Naturally the State Health Department to earn its salt must take an interest in these two conditions of healthful living. Had not the war intervened the department would probably have compelled all mountains to dispose of the sewage in a sanitary manner long since. Now with the growth of population throughout the foothill zone the improvement becomes imperative.

After all what right, morally at any rate, has any community to dump sewage into a stream that supplies drinking and irrigation water to hundreds of families that happne to live along its banks of the lower ountry. The moral right to a pure water supply has gradually become a legal right and our city council recognizes it and is now well on the way to give us a pure domestic supply of water and a sanitary disposition of our sewage.

COUNTY FIRE ORDINANCE IS PROPOSED

William French and Keith MacDonald, respectively law enforcement officer and timber manager for the Tahoe national forest asked the Nevada City Council to pass a resolution endorsing a proposed county ordinance to be submitted to the board of supervisors relative to fire prevention.

The proposed ordinance would prohibit smoking in areas adjacent to the national forests where fire hazards exist, and would require the disposal of slashe by lumber companies in the same manner as now required in national forests. Another ordinance proposed would impose certain restrictions on building in the county relative to preventing fire hazards.

Prizes for Most Votes in Cities and Counties

The California incorporated community whose official vote in November shows the highest percentage of registered voters going to the polls will be honored with a special civic award, James Mussatti, general manager ofthe California State Chamber of Commerce, announced today.

A similar trophy will be awarded by the State Chamber to the county whose official returns show the highest percentage of balloting by registered voters. Awards will be based upon official canvass of percentage of registered voters and the actual balloting. Every county and every community — regardless of population — has a chance to win this recognition.

"The State Chamber decided to award again this year the trophy to the incorporated community best fulfilling its duty at the polls", Mussatti said. "However, this gives no recognition to the splendid efforts in the rural areas, so a similar trophy was added, to go to the California county polling the highest percentage of its registration. Official election statistics will decide the winner.

"The State Chamber's awards are being made on the eve of an election that is of utmost importance to every citizen of the nation."

Chamber To Show Moving Picture

DEER HUNTER IS SHOT THROUGH BOTH LEGS

The first deer hunting casualty in Nevada County, for this season, occured Saturday evening at dusk when three U. S. Navy men were hunting at Lake Spaulding and Fred Cartwright was accidentally shot through both legs.

James Blackburn, William Perrin and Cartwight had seen a buck and just before sundown and were giving a hill bordering the lake another search. Blacgburn, on a stand, saw the buck, fired and missed. The bullet struck Cartwight.

Perrin and Blackburn carried Cartwight out of the woods, a half mile to the highway. An ambulance brought the injured man to the Community Hospital in Grass Valley after midnight. An examination by Dr. Orvin P. Fry yesterday morning indicated no bones were broken though the bullet penetrated both lower legs. The three navy men were on leave from the Alameda Air Base.

RANCH FOREMAN CHARGED WITH HITTING OFFICER

As an outgrowth of the arrest last week of C. C. Wilson, Millis Wilson and S. F. Rickard, all of Alta Hill, Grass Valley, on charges of spotlighting deer near North Bloomfield, Earl Hiscox game warden and W. E. Eddy, deupty sheriff, sought to question Mason Meredith, foreman of the Luther Ranch on which the spotlighting was alleged to have taken place.

According to Eddy, who signed a complaint, Meredith hit him, knocked him down and threatened to kill him. Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen and Deputy Sheriff George DeSoto yesterday went to North Bloomfield and arrested Meredith on a charge of resisting an officer. Meredith gave bail fixed at $250 by Justice of the Peace George Gildersleeve.

The two Wilsons and Rickard pleaded not guilty to the charge of spotlighting deer. A big buck with his throat freshly cut was found within a hundred yards of their camprire, at 11 p. m. Both the Wilsons according to the game warden had blood splotches on their clothing and one had a bloody hunting knife in his hand when arrested.

The authorization for wearing of civilian clothes cancels a 4 1-2 old order which required naval pehsonnel to wear the uniform at all times.

CHLORINATION OF CITY'S WATER CONTEMPLATED

The city council has taken the first step toward chlorinating all water that flows into use for domestic purposes. One chlorination plant, it was stated, is in operation at the Canada Hill reservior and this it is assumed treats about one third of the town's water supply.

A survey was ordered to accertain just what other chlorination plants must be installed to make the water supply safe for use.

On recommendation of the board of fire delegates, the salary of the fire engineer was raised from $53 to $63 a month. The engineer, Max Solaro, is also chief of police.

The council acting on a motion by Councilman Charles Veale agreed to plant grass on the baseball diamond and in the Memorial Grove at Pioneers Pork. An adjourned meeting will be held in two weeks to bring up for a passage a parking meter ordinance.

She was attired in a two piece aqua-colored dress with a gardenia corsage. Elmer Ollikkala was best man. Leonard Grant of Grass Valley, and Ernest Oaks, of Oakland, were ushers.

After filling his gas tank in Truckee he drove away without paying. The sheriff's office reported that the gas salesman in a car pursued him, overhauled him, and demanded payment. Rooney is said to have threatened to shoot the salesman. A general alarm was then sent out and highway patrolmen picked up Rooney at Colfax.

JUST WONDERIN'

I Wonder, when Columbus braved
Uncharted seas from day to day,
Thinking to wrest from the unknown
The secret of a better way,
If, in his dreams he sometimes caught,
Vague glimpses of a land to be,
From whose warm, untried soil would spring
The flowers of Hope and Liberty.

It is a long glance backward from October 1946, to October 1492, but if we invoke the aid of that magic carpet, called, Imagination, we can take it; and what shall we see? Why, three little wooden ships, Nina, Pinta and Santa Marie coming at length to the end of a fateful voyage and anchoring, though even their intrepid master did not know it then, upon the shores of San Salvador, an outpost of the great new continent of America.

Columbus was indeed a bold adventurer, a courageous voyager, a resourceful master. We are amazed in this age of great ocean liners an swift air traffic when in imagination, we picture those three little sail boats out upon the vast ocean whereto their frightened and doubting crews, the very laws of nature were in abeyance, and we are more than astonished as we contemplate the courage of Columbus, who beset by dangers upon every hand, wearied by the unending complaints of his crews, threatened and wearied by their insistent queries and outspoken reproaches, yet succeeded in conquering all difficulties and bringing his venture to a successful conclusion.

The world of today is venturing out upon an untried sea; beset by winds of wrath and snarling tides of hate and disillusionment; assailed by treacherous under currents of doubt, bigotry and fear — yes, the good ship, Hope of the World, is in stormy waters and in many instances, her crews are no braver, no more interested than were those of Columbus all those long, long years ago.

"What shall we do, oh Master?" was the quavering query addressed to Columbus, and in his answer, "sail on, sail on, and on!" We find the solution to the fears and doubts that hinder progress today. "Sail on!" Angry billows rise and fall, our able seamen are not always so daring as we could wish them to be; clouds gather, wild winds blow. "Sail on!"
And what did they find when the voyage was o'er,
Pinta, Nina and Santa Marie?
Why, a sunlit bay and a smiling shore,
And an island they named San Salvador;
And this is the lesson they teach us still,
When burdensome tasks our moments fill,
There's always a way when there is a will;
Pinta, Nina and Santa Marie.

Uncle Silas says: "Upton Close calls his new house organ. The Closer Up. I don't know whether he prononnced it closer up or, clozer up. If closerup, we hope he will keep his perspective; if clozerup, we hope he will leave a few chinks open through which the light of international understanding may at times shine through." — Adeline Merriam Conner.

BROAD STREET

By Harley M. Leete, Jr.

There is SOMETHING WRONG with our Chamber of Commerce! NOT with President Foreman or Secretary Sofge, or the 20 or 30 members who attend regularly. The something wrong is the 100 or so members who are home reading the paper or listening to the radio when they should be at the regular meeting of the chamber.

This "let-Joe-do-it" attitude was okay when the town lived off mining and there was certain to be a backlog of income whether or not the town itself was progressive, civic-minded and active in making a pleasant place to live.

We can't count on mining any more. The town's future lies in attracting a substantial and growing group of people to come here and live, just because it's a pretty, pleasane, up-to-date town and they like it.

TO THE 100 INACTIVE MEMBERS OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE: Paying dues isn't enough. You're got to give the chamber and the town the benefit of your ideas, your energy and your interest. It's dollars in your pocket and pride in your heart to keep Nevada City growing and progressive. You've got a first rate President—H. S. (Bert) Foreman, and a first rate Secretary H. F. Sofge. If every member of the chamber did ONE-THIRD as much as those two officers, Nevada City would soon become known up and down the state as one of the MOST DESIRABLE TOWNS IN THE WEST!

POSTSCRIPT — THE NEVADA CITY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETS TOMORROW NIGHT IN ITS MEETING ROOM IN THE CITY HALL AT 8 P. M. Feature of the meeting will be a MOTION PICTURE entitled "Pure Water," secured by City Councilman Albert S. Bates.

PROPOSITION 1 WILL BE BIG AID TO VETERANS

Passage of Proposition No. 1 at the November 5 election not only will help provide veterans with much-needed farms and homes, but also will act as a backstop against inflation, Ed W. Bolt, chairman of the Veterans' Homes and Farms Committee, declared today.

Quoting figures provided by Lawrence C. Stevens, State Director of Veterans' Affairs, Bolt pointed out that at least part of the current inflationary tendency has been taken out of the real estate market for veterans obtaining state farm and home loans through reduction of the interest rate on such loans to 3 percent.

Stevens explained that a California veteran purchasing a $7500 house under the state farm and home purchase act pays only $39.52 a month on the 3 pct. rate, while that amount per month would have bought only a $6300 house under the 5 pct. rate prevailing before the war.

"We don't mean to say that a $6300 house can be obtained for as little as $7500 in the present market, but we believe that the saving on the monthly payment resulting from the reduction in interest rate will make a considerable difference to a veteran who must pay off his contract over 20 long years", Stevens said. Savings over this period under the new plan would total more than $1800, he added.

The farm and home loans are now being made under a $30,000,000 self-liquidating bond issue overwhelmingly approved by the voters in 1943. This fund, however, is almost exhausted, which is the reason for Proposition No. 1, a new $100,000,000 bond issue to meet the needs of the thousands of additional California veterans.

HELP FOR HAY-FEVER VICTIMS

Here is a community enterprise of exceptional merit. The new weed killer "2-4-D sprayed on vacant lots and other areas where ragweed grows, will kill the ragweed, thereby removing the cause of hay fever to the great majority of its victims.

All hay-fever sufferers and their friends who have to agonize with them in the autumn days before frost should join in a jihad against ragweed now that they have this new oil-based spray as a weapon.

COMMUNISM IN ACTION

This is a book review of Communism in Action. Every citizen of the United States should read it. It is given in three installments. This is the third.

"The bolshevik program had called for the nationalization of the land, that is, ownership and operation of the land by the state. Early policy however consisted chiefly of the ratification of the peasant seizures. In 1929 the government decided to encourage the collective farm and to discourage the independent peasant holding. Heavy taxation, refusal of credit, prohibition of ownership or lease of farm machinery and compulsory liquidation were among the measures used to force the peasants into collectives. By 1932 this second agricultural revolution was nearly complete.

"Each able bodied member of a collective is obliged to perform a specified amount of work for the collective. The governing body of the collective determines the amount each year, subject to certain minimum standards prescribed for all collectives. The specified amount of labor to be devoted to the collective is expressed in terms of workdays. A workday is measured not in terms of time but in terms of the type of work performed and the quality of the performance.

"A study of education in the USSR gives an insight into the general course of soviet policy. Education by its very nature represents preparation for the long future and in the soviet union all important education policies are established by the highest authorities of the central government. The soviet leaders regard education as an extremely serious business. To them it is an instrument through which the communist party aims to achieve its purposes.

"In every phase of education in the soviet union the doctrine of the communist party are teh only ones communist party are the only ones sidered by the learners. If the form of government now existing in the USSR hould be established in the United States the communist party would control education.

"Since about 1938 the authority of teachers has been emphasized and pupils have been subjected to increasingly strict supervision in the school, at home and on the street. Teachers regulate the out of school lives of their pupils.

"Leisure time use in the soviet union is strictly controlled by the state and the communist party. The amount of time allocated a worker for leisure depends on the type or work he is engaged in and the quality of his performance. The places to which he may go in search of rest and recreation are likewise determined for him. The groups within which his leisure time activities are performed are organized and activated by communist party members.

"Under bolshevism the miracles and splendors of the church were exposed as superstitions and unscientific processes. The religious youth of the land were made to feel as outcasts and outsiders who were not contributing to the welfare of their country. Religious persecution under the communists varied in intensity from 1917 until the beginning of World War II. The reconcilliation between church and state was confirmed by an official step in September 1943 when Stalin declared there would be no objection on the part of the government to the election of a patriarch, denied since 1925.

"Although the concept of individual freedom in the USSR differs sharply from that in the United States the soviet constitution contains a comprehensive and much publicized bill of rights. The first article in the soviet bill of rights guarantees to soviet citizens the right to work—considerable compulsion, it should be noted, accompanies the right to work.

"The soviet constitution like that of the United States guarantees freedom of speech, of the press ond of assembly. The meaning attached to these guarantees, however, is altogether different in the two countries. If the soviet attitude toward the press were to be applied in the United States all private printing would be forbidden, the federal government would take over all newspapers, printing presses, publishing houses, educational facilities, radio stations, theatres and concert halls, cuseums and all other means of communication and then proceed to control them for political purposes with no opposition to the party in power permitted.

"The right to acquire private property is strictly limited in the soviet union as is the right of engaging in private enterprise. The right to employ hired labor for profit is forbidden altogether.

"The basic national defense policies of the USSR as announced in statements by her leaders are (1) support of the United Nations Organization for collective security and (2) maintenance of a strong army and navy as a guaranty of security in cose of failure of international measures. STOCKMAN WHO SET FIRES FACE FELONY CHARGE

SAN ANDREAS, Oct. 7—Harvey M. French State Division of Forestry investigator for the Mother Lode district reported that Louis L. Genecco, Calaveras County stockman was placed in custody Monday night after confessing the setting of two different fires last Friday in the vicinity of Railroad Flat, Calaveras County. Gnecco is charged under Section 600 of the Penal Code for felonously setting fires on lands other than his own. State Division of Forestry fire crews battled the resulting flames until Mo. y when they were controlled after burning more than 2300 acres of timber and grazing lands. More than 80 fire fighters were used to control the flames and suppression costs amounted to $4000 of the taxpayers money.

French said present state law precludes the necessity of stockmen illegally using fire as a land clearance tool. Legally, French continued the stockman can use fire to clear his lands by first obtaining a burning permit from the Division of Forestry office and subsequently abiding by the conditions of the permit. Division of Forestry personnel will cooperate in the control burning by giving advice on precautionary measures necessary by the rancher to insure that the flames don't spread to properties of others. When wild fires are not demanding the services of the state fire protection men and equipment, the division will cooperate by actually standing by during the burning period. Gnecco if convicted of the felonous charge faces a penalty of one to ten years in a state prison.

MONKEY CARGO TO FIGHT POLIO ARRIVES IN S. F.

One hundred forty three monkeys will arrive aboard a specially heated flying boat, Hawaiian Mars, at Alameda Ntval Air Station today destined for five educational institutions for use in the control of inmantile paraylsis. Their arrival is the culmination of five months planning by Brayton Wilbur, president of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and L. J. Francisco, executive vice president of Connell Brothers Company, importers, from the Philippines.

The navy plane load to arrive today has been coddled all the way across the Pacific since it left the Philippines September 30. The freight space is kept at a tropical 80 degrees, the monkeys have been fer their favorite tropical fruits, and they will be unloaded into heated trucks for delivery to the bay area institutions where research in infantile paralysis is carried on.

Institutions to receive monkers under the present plan: Stanford University, Hooper Research Foundation of the University of California, Yale University, John Hopkins University and University of Michigan. Carl F. Meyer, of the Hooper Foundations will accept the first shipment for distribution. It is estimated that 14,000 more monkeys are needed immediately to carry on an effective campaign against the disease.

Only a short time ago, the monkeys were living on the overgrown plantation which is owned by International Harvester Company but which was confiscated by the Japanese when they invaded the Philippines and is now a jungle. Lured by bananas and sweet potatoes the monkeys were trapped in cages, travelled 600 miles by chartered planes from the isolated plantation to the take off point of the navy Mars, and from there they have made a fast trip to Alameda. The navy is putting aboard 1000 pounds more fruit at Honolulu to assure their arriving in good condition. Any fruit not eaten will be thrown overboard one hour before the plane's arrival at the airfield in compliance with California law.

Procuring tropical fruit to satisfy 153 monkeys upon arrival is only a small part of what Francisco calls his monkey business. From Manila he directed the collection of the Macacus type monkeys the construction of special cages to house the monkeys until the number was large enough to make the first shipment, the payment in trade goods rather than money to the natives who made the capture and the final shipment to this country. He arrived here in San Francisco a few days in advance of this first shipment to arrange for their safe transfer to the institutions for which they were collected.

Francisco is a long time Manila resident and business man who was held by the Japanese for three years in San Tomas prison camp with his family. His association with Connell Brothers Company and the Wilbur-Ellis Company of Manila brought him the monked assignment the first part of which is completed today.

Plans for additional shipments of monkeys to this country are indefinite but collections in the Philippines are continuing and a census of the needed type of monkeys has been taken. Institutions which relied on monkeys from Java and Burma before the war are now hoping to receive thousands of the Macacus monkeys to continue their fight against infantile paralysis.

DEMOCRAT ASKS WILL ROGERS TO ANSWER QUERIES

Flatly accusing junior Will Rogers of trying to sidestep issues of the United States senatorial campaign, J. E. O'Neill, prominent Fresno business man, civic leader and a registered Democrat, yesterday challenged young Rogers to answer two questions recently put to him by U. S. Senator William F. Knowland.

"Although young Rogers has stated that he supports the Stuttgart speech of Secretary of State Byrnes and that he is opposed to appeasement, he has never said what he thought of Wallace's proposals on foreign policy, which are contrary to those of Byrnes," O'Neill charged.

"Further, Rogers has not answered the charge made by Senator Knowland regarding a speech Rogers made before a section of the Commonwealth Club in San Francisco last March. In that speech, which was reported in the club's bulletin, Rogers was quoted as favoring a lower standard of living in the United States so that other nations would be less jealous of us. Rogers only reply to that one," O'Neill said, "was to term the charge a lie."

"Senator Knowland answered that one," O'Neill continued, "by producing proof in the form of a photostatic copy of the bulletin."

O'Neill said that the fact that Jas. Roosevelt chairman of the Democrtic state committee, had been quoted as saying that there are no "fundamental differences" between the foreign policy stands of Byrnes and Wallace and that Roosevelt also stated "I am convinced that Rogers agrees with this" makes it imperative for Rogers to speak up and state, in his own words, whether he is for or against the Wallace plan.

"Many left wing groups have given endorsement to Wallace's pro-Russian views," O'Neill continued, "and I think the citizens of California have a right to know R. gers' stand on this subject. It is one of the vital issues of the campaign.

"The public is also entitled to a clean cut answer from Rogers on whether he still believes, as he did in March, that this nation's living standard should be lowered."
